Division of Diabetes Translation

CDC’s Mission
To collaborate to create the expertise, information and tools that people and communities need to protect their health – through health promotion, prevention of disease, injury and disability, and preparedness for new health threats.

Division of Diabetes Translation
Vision: A world free of the devastation of diabetes.

Mission: To reduce the preventable burden of diabetes through public health leadership, partnership, research, programs and policies that translate science into practice.

Strategic Focus: We concentrate our efforts where we can achieve the greatest impact for populations with the greatest burden or risk.

Goals:
- Prevent Diabetes
- Prevent complications, disabilities and burden associated with diabetes.
- Eliminate diabetes-related health disparities.
- Maximize organizational capability to achieve goals.

www.cdc.gov/diabetes
Conference Goals

- Explore science, policy, education, program planning, implementation, and evaluation to enhance public health approaches and strategies to prevent and control diabetes.
- Increase knowledge and awareness of successful, cost-effective, public and private diabetes programs.
- Present innovative strategies to increase awareness of diabetes and how to prevent complications, disabilities, and burden associated with diabetes.
- Share and showcase effective strategies toward the elimination of diabetes-related health disparities.
- Provide opportunities for skill-building, information-sharing, and networking.

Attendees

CDC’s Diabetes Translation Conference 2010 will bring together a wide range of local, state, federal, and territorial governmental agencies and private-sector diabetes partners. Our main constituents are the state-based diabetes prevention and control program (DPCP), their partners, and the following:

- Federal, state, and local public health professionals
- Managers, directors, and executives from affiliated health professional associations
- Health professional associations and consultant partners in prevention and control activities and programs
- Managers, directors, and executives from health management organizations
- Physicians, nurses, nutritionists, dieticians, pharmacists, and health educators
- Health professionals other than government
- Representatives from special interest groups and industry
- Academic and research staff from educational institutions
- Undergraduate and post-graduate students in health-related fields
- Policy and communication staff

Presentation Formats

Plenary Presentation: A general session for all attendees presented by a keynote speaker or panel of presenters.

Symposia: Three concurrent in-depth subject matter presentations pertinent to diabetes prevention and control.

Concurrent Presentation: One of several presentations held during a session period includes oral presentations, workshops, and networking sessions.

Poster Presentation: Subject matter displayed on poster boards Wednesday and Thursday of the conference. Presenters will be available to discuss their posters at scheduled times.

Training Session: These sessions are designed to increase knowledge, skills and abilities in a wide variety of areas of interest to those in health-related fields.
Presentations – Categories
